« 2020: A challenging but successful year for the ALSF »

2020 has been a challenging year for the entire world, not least Africa. As the previous year saw growth in the

ALSF's membership, increase in requests and projects, launch of our flagship ALSF Academy, strengthening of strategic partnerships, and international recognition for our projects, we naturally expected to capitalise on the successes and were well poised for a momentous year to mark the ALSF's tenth anniversary.

Accordingly, the ALSF planned for its first ever High-Level Meeting (HLM) of the Regional Member Countries (RMCs), several missions to facilitate ongoing projects and initiate new ones, and various knowledge management events to develop the capacity of lawyers across the continent and promote our "cross-cutting issues" - good governance, environmental protection, and gender equality.

However, the COVID-19 pandemic threatened to disrupt our plans as global and national restrictions affected the progress of projects and required alternative ways of working. Our RMCs were confronted with a health crisis, plummeting investments, revenue shortfalls, debt crises, rising poverty, and declining growth; and needed the ALSF's support even more than before.

Our RMCs took bold and commendable measures to limit the spread of the pandemic within their national borders. The ALSF responded in tandem and complemented the efforts of the countries by producing the COVID-19 response alerts across its priority areas (Sovereign Debt, Power, Extractives and Natural Resources, Infrastructure & PPPs, and Investment Dispute Resolution) to enable the countries anticipate and determine adequate response measures to mitigate the impact of the pandemic on transactions within these sectors. The ALSF also made adjustments to ongoing projects, including restructuring and prioritisation to optimise project implementation and impact, and developed innovative and rapid response services to support RMCs, especially transition or fragile states.

Notwithstanding the challenges of the past year, the ALSF chalked up significant accomplishments, including successfully holding its tenth anniversary HLM at which RMCs pledged commitment to the ALSF and strongly recommended the extension of its tenure. The ALSF Governing Council and Management Board also approved the extension of tenure as well as a number of significant requests and projects. By the end of the year, more than 36 projects amounting to about USD 12 million had been approved, matching 2019 levels. The ALSF also launched the African Petroleum Legislation Atlas (APLA) (<https://a-pla.org>) and organised more than 20 webinars with various partners that strengthened knowledge and capacity development of more than 800 lawyers and technical officials in critical issues on debt, power, natural resources, infrastructure & PPPs and investment dispute resolution across the continent. The projects will contribute to sustainable development and building resilience as the continent recovers from the pandemic.

In 2020, one new country (Malawi) ratified the ALSF Treaty. The ALSF continued to pursue and strengthen strategic partnerships to enhance the impact of its projects. Importantly, thanks to our donors, the ALSF will be able to meet the expected surge in requests in 2021 as investment and economic activities pick up in the RMCs.

I am extremely grateful to the ALSF Management Board and Governing Council for their accessibility and constructive guidance, as well as to the ALSF's dynamic and hardworking team for our accomplishments in 2020. I know I can count on your continued support as we look forward to a promising 2021.

On behalf of the ALSF, I wish you a healthy, successful, and happy 2021.
